

Describing the Sky

Big D and the Kids Table

Two kids excited when they hit the pavement
You know the sight of us, the two most complacent
Oh my God is this the world?
How will we keep ourselves young?
How will we keep our souls pure? We'll have to step back, be steady, and check out the new scenery
Deduct what we are seeing and trust each others opinion Gotta push back the people who try and sour reality
There's so many bitter, we'll have to be believers Stand tall
We both look them in the eye
We're trying not to laugh just yet
I think we'll both do fine
Now we're laying after a perfect day as we fade away, what a world we'll make Well I'm forever your fighting partner
Yah, I can hold you above them for days
You see, my arms are strong and I'm focused
We're in store for better days
Oh no, I don't need to see
Just tell me what it looks like above the clouds
Describe the sky to me, just describe the sky to me While we're laying after a perfect day, as we fade away, what a world we've made I told her, "Relax, there's no need to be shy
Go ahead and laugh too loud, my friends think you're divine
Feel safe and alive, come look at the sky
Tonight you look so nice"
Tonight we'll be...
We both stand tall
We always look them in the eye
We're always laughing out too loud
Us two are doing quite fine
Two kids shaping their lives
Yes we will survive
Yes we will survive
