When Leaves Fall

Leap Day

Now you cry and I canâ€™t tell you what it is Gloomy eyes stare into the nothingness â€˜Cause when the leaves fall, you watch them tumbling
While youâ€™re drowning in your private emptiness

Donâ€™t be scared, I will guide you on your way
I am here and we both will make our stay â€˜Cause when the leaves fall, the tumbling colours
Can turn a dark night into a brand new day

Rain beats on our window pane
The sun is way down low
Faith is losing ground and both of us seem lost
Will we see the light again?
Help us through the night
In the end who will be there to count the cost?

Donâ€™t say that itâ€™s all useless
Donâ€™t you turn your back on me
I havenâ€™t come this far to give up now

Each time that I meet you here
You ask me to explain
Why I join you on this journey through your pain
The reason that I came to you
Is that I know for sure
My attention somehow just will not be in vain

â€˜Cause when the leaves fall it makes me wonder Pretty colours like a painting on the earth
Soon spring will come again and days get longer
Leading to a glorious rebirth

Old habits
Tend to die so hard
You canâ€™t hold on
To what lies in the past

Seductions
Always tempting us

You canâ€™t avoid Making changes anymore

Leaves may fall.. this no longer bothers me
I have seen just what more our lives can be
I feel delivered now from all this sorrow
Caught in myself.. but from now on Iâ€™ll be free
