

Not Supposed to Sing the Blues

Europe

Born in 1963
In the shadow of Kennedy
Im still a kid when the levee breaks
Man, oh man, thats all it takes And I'm on my way Boy, you're not supposed to sing the blues
Where you come from If you walk across those railroad tracks
Son, youre on your own
But all I know is what I feel, and it cant be wrong
Boy, you're not supposed to sing the blues
Where you come from Where you come from
Its just not done Back in black and I'm 17
Ive been told, son, let it be
I got these lines upon my face now
A room at the heartbreak hotel
Yeah yeah Oh well, oh well
Ah yeah Boy, you're not supposed to sing the blues
Where you come from If you walk across those railroad tracks
Son, youre on your own
All I know is what I feel, and it cant be wrong
Boy, you're not supposed to sing the blues
Where you come from Where you come from
It's just not done Oh well, oh well
Alright Boy, you're not supposed to sing the blues
Where you come from If you walk across those railroad tracks
Son, youre on your own
But all I know is what I feel, and it cant be wrong
Boy, you're not supposed to sing the blues Where you come from Where you come from
Its just not done

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>