

Courage

Frankie J

Just when you think you got hope, instead you start to loose it... and then you think you have time but you start falling behind. you ask yourself, could this be some kind of illusion and then you pinch yourself its messin with your mind and then you start to find that the stress you hide reveals itself in your frustration and then you question why is this heart of mine, going through this complication... just leave it all to him, 'cause he's in control trust in all he does, he's the one that knows, and he will never leave you in despair he'll protect you with the power of a prayer you gotta have courage, courage, courage, courage, so brother don't worry, worry, worry, worry He's got your back and you know that he will never leave you behind you gotta have courage, courage, courage, courage, so sister don't worry, worry, worry, worry you gotta believe in his word, because he will never tell you no lie you gotta have courage just when you think that the rain won't stop falling, you'll hear his voice, with your name he's calling and all the pain and hurt will seize, and you'll know exactly what I mean you'll get down on your knees and you'll start to believe and begin worshipping his name he's the king of kings, oh yeah he's the great ---- & then you'll start to find sunshine in your life, the reasons for all his creations, and you'll realize all your questions, will disappear 'cause they'll be answered... just leave it all to him, 'cause he's in control trust in all he does, he the one that knows,
and he will never leave you in despair
he'll protect you with the power of a prayer
you gotta have courage, courage, courage, courage,
so brother don't worry, worry, worry, worry
He's got your back and you know that he will never leave you behind
you gotta have courage, courage, courage, courage,
so sister don't worry, worry, worry, worry you gotta believe in his word, 'cause he will never tell you no lie you gotta have courage

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>