

Now You Lift Your Eyes To the Sun

Stars of Track and Field

Daylight blows up

In the room as you draw the blinds

Open air

So scared

Overstrung my beloved I can feel it in the skyPlease go back to where you came

Either way I feel the same

All of us will not remain

Tied to things we did in vain

Three degrees your shoulders they sink

As you reach for me

Your hands are numb

So stunned

And now you lift your eyes to the sun

To see me burnPlease go back to where you came

Either way I feel the same

All of us will not remain

Tied to things we did in vainPlease go back the way you came

Either way I feel the same

When all of us won't remain

Tied to things we did in vain

Please go back the way you came

Either way I feel the same

When all of us won't remain

Tied to things we did in vain
