

Nocturnal Conspiracy

Haken

No disturbance could wake me.
Observers are captivated
By nocturnal projections
Of my vivid imagination.
Try as I might to recall the events of the night,
Yet the deeper I hunt, the further away they run. Moon rises, I shiver,
Confiding in the mirror.
My ghost in the reflection
Just witnessed the resurrection.
Lights flashed before my eyes
With scenes from someone else's life! Nothing is quite as it seems,
Something died inside of me.
By powers that be,
A man will live forever in paranoia.
I believe your conspiracy
When they're after me,
For what I revealed could change your life. Scenes from someone else's life,
Have they been planted in our minds?
Never have I ever taken a life,
But it seems overnight I've become a killer
On the run 'cause... I believe your conspiracy
When they're after me
For what I revealed. I believe your conspiracy
When they're after me
For what I revealed.
I believe your conspiracy
When they're after me,
For what I revealed will change your life.
Tonight I hang by a thread
As the voice in my head takes control
Of this pain that I have felt before.
On trial, my confidence weakens.
I'm close to defeat,
But tonight the verdict will be televised. Calling no witnesses to the stand,
Clearing my name with no evidence.
Knowing this could be my final chance,
No one is coming to my defense. Inside the truth is suppressed,
With unlimited access denied
To all the things you wish to hide.

The lies, the sex and the secrets
Will tear us to pieces in time,
When no one can tell wrong from right. Calling no witnesses to the stand,
Clearing my name with no evidence.
Knowing this could be my final chance,
No one is coming to my defense. Nocturnal conspiracy!
Nocturnal conspiracy!
