

Falling from You

Grieves

And in come the strings playing my patience like a note, that i never had the guts to say i been living with your lies, cause my life dont feel quite right unless im swelling from the honey bee's sting and look at what you bring me girl, nothing but drama holdin on strong, making me feel your walls how long can we go, till we're nothing but a pile of bones stand tall in the cold, right you tell me that its over, and show me what its like to have a stomach full of sulphur and loving you has taught me to keep a hand on the holster incase i gotta shoot a couple holes but what the hell do i know i dont know shit, unless im hanging off the curve of your lips i've been looking for an angle like you, since the devil in me made it obvious it doesn't exist [Chorus]
how, how will i figure this out undertow dragging you down beneath my comfort zone, but that love i gave you drowned im freakin' out, speaking with your name in my mouth and i dont want to live without you, i just want to heal your clouds away, away, away and into the fake smiles, walking 'round like a stray child, tryna find a quiet place to sleep i dont know if you can feel it in the air, when you step into the street but ive been findin' it a little hard to breathe and look at what you brought me girl, nothing but pain spendin my money for the walk in the rain, im drained i never wanted this to be the outcome, when i can never trust you and all i get is how come why, after everything i gave you, you can share it with a stranger, every time i went away, ive been lied to before girl, i see it in your face, that you don't care about the broken heart i taste but what the hell do i know? i know the world will go blind, if i open up the cage in my mind, i been running from an angel like you, since the devil in me showed me heavens not about a bottom line, [Chorus]

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>