The Frame III: Sirocco

I the Mighty

When its so damn hot,
they say we only see just what we want, what we want.
Well, trust them not.
Theres no one here to argue this mirage when hope is all you got.
'Cause now theyre closing in as you begin to fall apart.When everybody grew so cold,
You gave up but we believed in you, believed in you.
And you were once this empty shell,
Now you stand above the rest.Yeah, I took you in,
told you of the storm thats coming and I watched your eyes light up like fireflies in the desert night.
And you said:
Yes, my friend theyre hunting me down like a dog
so Ill have them die like one.Now theyre closing in, as you begin your plan and run.
Run! Run! Run!When everybody grew so cold,
You gave up but we believed in you, believed in you.
And you were once this empty shell,
Now you stand above the rest, yeah.You led them from where you call home and into a desert storm.
And left them to deal with God.
(I wash my hands and now it's done.)
In the morning, theyd all be gone, yeah.When everybody grew so cold,
you gave up but we believed in you, believed in you.
And you were once this empty shell,
now you stand above the rest.
Oh, you stand above the rest.
Oh, you stand above the rest, yeah.But they already took her from us, from us.

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/