

I Bow Down and Pray to Every Woman I See

Chuck Prophet

Chloe was a neighbor girl
Who walked 'round in a trance
A lot like Sissy Spacek
At that homecoming dance.
Father was religious
Mother was too
She yearned to be a model
Had issues with food.
Last I heard of Chloe
Someone saw her on TV
Preaching the power of hypnosis
And aromatherapy.

Donna was my sister's friend
A fashion paranoid
She wore a winter coat all summer long
And made a lot of noise
About [?] and demagogues
And how we should be scared
We dropped LSD at Disneyland
She left me stranded there.
I hitched back to the Valley
With a Doctor Leopold
Who said [?] computers
Had come to steal our souls.

Ooh, baby
Ooh, baby

I bow down and pray to every woman I see.
I bow down and pray to every woman I see.

Bella served me coffee
She kept the biscuits warm
I never saw her even once
Out of her uniform.
Katy had an ugly dog
She swore would never bite
Followed that girl everywhere
Never left her sight.

She said "Baby, baby, baby
Crawl out of your shell.
I'll show you something
If you promise not to tell."

Ooh baby
Ooh baby

I bow down and pray to every woman I see.
I bow down and pray to every woman I see.
Ain't no mother f

-- gonna criticize me.

I bow down and pray to every woman I see.

Lyrics submitted by Lisa Cousins.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnllyrics.com/>