Lazy Eye

Hem

There's a lazy eye that looks at you
And sees you, the same as before
When you lay beside me every night
Though now you are with me, no moreI can still see the hem of your dress
And the comb as it's parting your hair
And the person I held is still there in my
Lazy eye that looks at you
And sees you the same as beforeI can still see the hem of your dress
And the comb as it's parting your hair
And the person I held is still there in my
Lazy eye that looks at you
And sees you the same as before
