Perfect

Lifer

At one time close now somehow far No more oppression, no more scabs To heal or pick open again Attention strayed from everything And I will never believe you And I don't think anything is true And is anything for certain, can't take the place of you But it takes the place of nothin' When everything is perfect Why is everything so rotten? Can't take the place of Place of, place of me and you To think how some were wanting me Up close to something wrong to me If I confess you'll lie to me Think of something wondering And I will never believe you

And I don't think anything is true And is anything for certain, can't take the place of you But it takes the place of nothin' When everything is perfect Why is everything so rotten? Can't take the place of Place of, place of me and you And as I walk away from you How can I, how can I look at you when I feel this way now? How can I, how can I look at you when I'm pissed off somehow? How can I, how can I look at you when I feel this way now? How can I, how can I look at you when I'm pissed off some? How can I, how can I look at you when I feel this way now? How can I, how can I look at you when I'm pissed off somehow? How can I, how can I look at you when I feel this way now? How can I, how can I look at you when I'm pissed off somehow? Somehow, some

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/