

Dig Your Roots

Florida Georgia Line

Verse 1:

Yeah I grew up ten minutes from the sticks

Ten minutes from the beach

And there ain't a bible verse y'all

I ain't heard a preacher preach

Mom and dad up in the bleachers

Screamin' while I pitch

B&D up in the speakers

While I'm ridin' round town with my Best friends, ain't life like a whirlwind?

One second I'm playing checkers with grandma

Then my world hits

I used to hear my granddaddy say

Before it's too late

Chorus:

You gotta dig your roots before the sun goes down

Show some love back to your hometown

fall in love, plant some seeds, carve some names in the family tree

Raise your kids, love your wife, put God first, just live your life

Hey I think I'm gonna go and get a little more dirt on my boots

You gotta dig your roots

(You dig 'em, you love 'em, you gotta put 'em in the ground for someone)

Verse 2:

Yeah I'm a long haired, tattooed, feather in the wind

Yeah a good ol' boy, just like my old man

Every night when I'm singing, I know he's looking down

Up there next to pawpaw, got the best seats in the house

When I close my eyes, I can still hear him say

The same thing I'm gonna tell my kids

Chorus:

You gotta dig your roots before the sun goes down

Show some love back to your hometown

fall in love, plant some seeds, carve some names in the family tree

Raise your kids, love your wife, put God first, just live your life

Hey I think I'm gonna go and get a little more dirt on my boots

You gotta dig your roots

Hook:

I'm so proud of where I came from

This town is who I am

And the way that I was raised up

Made me a better man

I'm proud of where I came from

Man, I love this land

And the way that I was raised up

Made me a better man

Chorus:

You gotta dig your roots before the sun goes down

Show some love back to your hometown

fall in love, plant some seeds, carve some names in the family tree

Raise your kids, love your wife, put God first, just live your life

Hey I think I'm gonna go and get a little more dirt on my boots

Yeah I think I'm gonna go and get a little more dirt on my boots

You gotta dig your roots
