

The Chain

Mr. Big

I hear their voices inside my head
There's no denying it's my private hell
As I lie in bed I take a look around and see myself
In twenty years will I be them I've taken all I can stand
Afraid of what kind of man I am
Does everything stay the same
Or will I break the chain Secrets, emotions and wounds concealed
Spirits are broken, the deepest scars that'll never heal
They'll be back handed down from father to son
A closet full of skeletons I've taken all I can stand
Afraid of what kind of man I am
Does everything stay the same
Or will I break the chain I will get by
With a little understanding
It's my own life after all I've taken all I can stand
Afraid of what kind of man I am
Does everything stay the same
Or will I break the chain I've taken all I can stand
Afraid of what kind of man I am
Does everything stay the same
Or will I break the chain Or will I break the chain
Will I break the chain
