Comin' Tonight

Martha Wainwright

You're comin' tonight
To my home town
I've been to yours many times before
And it's always been a thrillYou'll stay in a hotel or at friends near by
We haven't spent the night together in this town
Since nineteen seventy nine
Not such a long timeI could steal a melody
Of this I am allowed
'Cause you would never sue me, baby
It wouldn't look good, it'd be weirdHave a drink after the show
I might really wanna know
But everything you say I oppose
I blame it on my hole, it's just my roleI can steal a melody
Yes, I am allowed
'Cause you would never sue me, baby
It wouldn't look good, it'd be weirdAnd I spend my time trying to forget you
With booze and smoke from cigarettes and dope
And I only seem to forget myself
It's only you that is leftI could steal a melody
Of this I am allowed
You would never sue me, babyI could steal a melody
This I am allowed
You would never sue me, baby
It wouldn't look good, it'd be weird
It'd be weird, it'd be weirdYou're comin' tonight
To my home town
