

A Step You Can't Take Back

Keira Knightley

So you find yourself at the subway
With your world in a bag by your side
And all at once it seems like a good way
You realize it's the end of the line,
For what it's worth...

Here comes the train upon the track
There goes the pain, it cuts to black
Are you ready for the last act?
To take a step you can't take back

Taking all the punches you could take
Took 'em all right on the chin
And all that count was back is breaking again, again
For what it's worth

Here comes the train upon the track
There goes the pain, it cuts to black
Are you ready for the last act?
To take a step you can't take back
Did she love you
Did she take you down
Was she on her knees
Would she kiss your crown
Tell me what you'd found

Here comes the rain so hold your hat
And don't pray to God 'cause He won't talk back
Are you ready for the last act?
To take a step you can't take back, back, back
You can't take back, back, back

So you find yourself at the subway
With your world in a bag by your side

---

Lyrics submitted by Samantha.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>