

Ivalo

The Mountains

Ivalo

I miss you even when I sleep
And I hear voices from the deep
And still I haven't even seen you breathe
At times my echoes reach the womb
And I can sense it when you move
Are you just hiding from the light?
Strangely in mind, but out of sight
That's such a strange way to hide I have no time to write these lines
It's simple; I apologize
But years from now you'll realize
How quickly days and hours go by
That's such a strange way to hide Keep the curtains drawn; close your eyes
I already tied my world to your life
Keep the curtains drawn; close your eyes
Very soon you'll climb through the wire
That's such a strange way to hide
