

Three Days

Toni Childs

I walk away, it seems it's like a bad day
On the hill, I stand and stare away
Hoping for a brighter day And I stand staring there
And I stand staring there today I feel the rain fall upon my face
And wash away the things I feel inside
Turmoil is what moves the tides And I stand staring there
And I stand staring there
And I begin another day You say you hurt and the cut has been too deep
The blood that flows inside your soul has died
Cancer is the hurt inside And I can't walk away and I can't show the pain
And I can't let it go and I can't let it go away It's another day, the morning comes so bright
I feel lifted, now, the clouds have passed
I feel freedom here at last
