

Watching the Waters

Magic Pie

We keep staring through the window of the future
Do you like what you see? Can you call yourself free?
Everyday seeing so many faces passing by
It is written in the eyes, I can almost hear their cries
Watching the waters of our troubled world
Billions of souls asking why
Yesterdays gone and tomorrows to come
Watching the waves breaking high
Looking for happiness through cell phones and internet
Seeking people who care, hoping people would dare
All forgetting 'bout tomorrows thoughts and dreams
We keep living for today, it's like we knew no other way
Watching the waters of our troubled world...
A glimpse of happiness through a smile from a child
Catch the moment in time
Wishing everyday bring a better life for all we're all walking the line
Watching the waters of our troubled world
Billions of souls asking why
Yesterdays gone and tomorrows to come
Watching the waves breaking high
Watching the waters of our troubled world
Trying to find which way to go
Watching the world through a looking-glass
Sometimes really scares me so
