

Subterranean Sunlight

Madrugada

Subterranean sunlight
Sunken subterranean eyes
It was another chance for me to do right
And another one of those chances just passed me by
Won't even try to make it to your house
These people they ain't ever gonna lock me out
I'm gonna lay me down
In some dark and secluded town
Burn into the ever setting sun
I'm gonna lay me down
In some dark and secluded town
Burn into the ever setting sun
Well now you're on your own
Evil eyes on me
They play their evil games all night
And it has gone on for a century
I'm beginning to think I'm wrong and that they are right
They're invisible to so much they try to hide
They only show when they flash their ugly sight
I'm gonna lay me down
In some dark and secluded town
Burn into the ever setting sun
I'm gonna lay me down
In some dark and secluded town
Burn into the ever setting sun
Well now you're on your own
Subterranean nightmare
Sunken subterranean eyes
I ain't going anywhere
Won't even try to make it to your house
None of them ain't ever gonna lock me out
None of them ain't ever gonna let me go
I was a fool to think I could come here alone
I just had to go all night long
I'm gonna lay me down
In some dark and secluded town
Burn into the ever setting sun
I'm gonna lay me down
In some dark and secluded town
Burn into the ever setting sun
I'm gonna lay me down
In some dark and secluded town
Burn into the ever setting sun
I'm gonna lay me down
In some dark and secluded town
Burn into the ever setting sun
Oh well now you're on your own

Songwriters

HOYEM, SIVERT/BURAS, ROBERT/JACOBSEN, FRODE

Published by Lyrics © EMI Music Publishing Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>