

Lost At Sea

Guster

Home
I'm livin' alone
I'm starin' at the waves
I'm drinkin' in the gasoline Since the fall, I've been lost at sea
Walking in my sleep
Dreamin' of the major leagues And who's been calling my name
Is it me, or's it getting darker in this town You know, you know, we're all just castaways
We're cold and wet and naked and surrounded by the waves
Something in the way
Hold on, hold on.
Waiting for the land to come again Alone, I'm drinkin' alone
I'm walkin' in the weeds
I'm sinkin' in a submarine Since the fall, I've been lost at sea
Trippin' on my feet
Singin' in a minor key Is it true I will find a way
And I know
That's the biggest joke in town You know, you know, we're all just castaways
We're cold and wet and naked as we struggle in the waves
Something in the way
Hold on, hold on
Waiting for the land to come again You know, you know, we're all just castaways
Suspended on a line between the dark blue and the gray
But something in the way
Hold on, hold on
Waiting for the land to come we're waiting for our ship to come
Waiting for it all to come again
