Back to Hell

Will Varley

Red ocean flowing from the walk down to the sky
She melts the sunset with the candle in her eye
Woke up this morning thought I was gonna die
It's a long way downRusty wedding bells heavenly serenade
Soldiers of fortune as they join the parade
I saw her dancing upon that battleground
Such a long way downShe turn you into stone at midnight
That's when she cast her spell
She disappear into that old moonlight, and then
And then go back to hell
They feed upon her and try to catch her eye
But one by one she can infiltrate their mind
She rides to the moon upon a beam of light
It's a long way downThrowing your dream stand back and watch them blow
Your humble servants are burning down your throne
Poison lips and a paper bridal gown
Such a long way downShe turn you into stone at midnight
That's when she cast her spell
She disappear into that old moonlight, and then
And then go back to hell
Balanced on the edge of chaos
That's where we should be
Never quite safe but never falling off
Staring at the sea
