

Something More (Augustine's Confession)

Switchfoot

Augustine
Just woke up with a broken heart
All this time
He's never been awake before At thirty-one
His whole world is a question mark
All this time
He's never been awake before Watching dreams that he once had Feed the flames inside his head
In a quiet desperation of the emptiness
He says There's gotta be something more
Than what I'm living for
I'm crying out to you, yeah yeah
There's gotta be something more
Than what I'm living for
I'm crying out to you Augustine
All his fears keep falling out
All this time
He's never been awake before Finding now
His old dreams aren't panning out
All this time
He's never been awake before But he's mad to be alive
And he's dying to be met
In a quiet desperation of the emptiness
He says There's gotta be something more
Than what I'm living for
I'm crying out to you, yeah yeah
There's gotta be something more
Than what I'm living for
I'm crying out to you, yeah
Something more Hey I give it all away
Nothing I was holding back remains
Hey, I give it all away
Looking for the grace of God today There's gotta be something more
Than what I'm living for
I'm crying out to you, yeah yeah
There's gotta be something more
Than what I'm living for
I'm crying out to you There's gotta be something more
Than what I'm living for

I'm crying out to you, yeah yeah
There's gotta be something more
Than what I'm living for
I'm crying out to you, yeah Three, four
