She's Mine

Brett Dennen

Well, the witches stare with their limbs akimbo
Silhouettes a statues up in the window
Call me the coming with the crooked crescendo
But I don'tDevotees dance among the Dancing moms on the promenade
Into a tabernago on the long
But I don't followBecause she's mine, she's mine

She's mine, all mine

Yeah, she's mine, mine

MineMidnight mood across the peoples parking

I fled the fire like a spin and spark upon

Zoo approaching the dark

She was waiting right there for meShe knows that my hands are empty

As I go pass, her mother's a envy

And I don't have to fumble in the dark

For my keysI believe she's mine, she's mine

She's mine, all mine

Yeah, she's mine, mine

MineThe pupils gathered in the yard

Around the [Incomprehensible] made of cars

And waited for that leaders words

But his words didn't make much senseHis mouth is spat out of fist today

'Cause in his tongue is swirled in a southern swagger

And I love they all, the people gather

But they're worn in a tranceAnd she's mine, she's mine

She's mine, all mine

Yeah, she's mine, mine

MineI was strong before the quarter canes

Toss my soul to the furnace flames

Where all my heroes have been slain

Exiled or put in prisonBecause they rose above the mess

And because their power opposed the fading

Because they spoke of something else

When everybody else didn'tThe music fills the space between

The deities in the prophecies

Nobodys pressing the steed

Standing in the sandShe looks at me so fearlessly

And I take it all too seriously

But it all becomes a flee to me

And makes me understandThat she's mine, she's mine
She's mine, all mine
Yeah, she's mine, mine
MineYeah, she's mine, all mine
All mine, all mine
Yeah, she's mine, yes, mine
Oh, mineYes, she's mine, yeah, mine
Yeah, mine
Yeah, she's mine
