

Young At Heart

Amy Meredith

I close my eyes. it's on my mind tonight
Tonight
I recognize her fear inside so tight
So tight

Systems down. A broken crowd
The planet shakes, we start to break
The dancer falls My skin feels cold
The signs are clear, there's no one here

And even when the sun keeps shining down
It's dark
And even though the world keeps turning round
We're stopped

I'm tripping as the patterns repeat again
This time we're trying to pretend
Tonight we're all still young at heart
Something good will come
(Something good will come)

The brighter day of time and grace
Will light the way for your embrace
We'll open up our tired eyes to see to see

And even when the sun keeps shining down
It's dark
And even though the world keeps turning round
We're stopped

I'm tripping as the patterns repeat again
This time we're trying to pretend
Tonight we're all still young at heart
Something good will come
(Something good will come)

Listen to the sound
Of sirens
This is where we break this violent

Heart

Listen to the sound
Of sirens
This is where we break this violent
Heart

Something good will come

Oh oh
Oh oh
Oh oh
Oh oh

Oh oh
Oh oh
Oh oh
Oh oh

It's hard to know when it's out of control
It's hard to say that we never get old
Tonight we're all still young at heart

I'm tripping as the patterns repeat again
This time we're trying to pretend
Tonight we're all still young at heart
Something good will come
(Something good will come)

Listen to the sound
Of sirens
This is where we break this violent
Heart

Listen to the sound
Of sirens
This is where we break this violent
Heart

Something good will come

Oh oh
Oh oh
Oh oh

Oh oh

Something good will come

Oh oh

Oh oh

Oh oh

Oh oh

Lyrics submitted by cassie.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>