

I Propose a Toast to You

Doak Snead

(Doak Snead)

Seasons slip away wind up clocks reluctantly run down since the years have passed like calendar days man, it's good to have an old friend back in town.

yes, you're the one who taught me how to dream and to put behind the past mistakes I've made when you said keep your cool wrapped 'round your rosary I knew what you were truly trying to say to me.

chorus:
oh and I Propose a Toast to You old pals old buddies old socks who've stood the miles oh and I Propose a Toast to You and here's another mem'ry for the files.

It was Austin, Texas 1983 two girls in skirts down at the Western Best how the red haired one kept winking back at me pointing at the buttons on here chest Those were days of basking in the sun was it really that long ago well, tell me what does a feller your age now do for fun when you've done it all and know all there is to know you son of a gun.

repeat chorus
