

I Am the Door

Day of Fire

You said you would have but you couldn't let go
You said you should have but you needed some more
I know you would have if you could have it all
You said you would have but you needed, you needed some more You need a way to leave yourself behind
To bury your name, to fade across the line You said you should have but you wouldn't let go
You said you could have but you needed some more
I know you would have if you could have it all
You said you would have but you needed, you needed some more You need a way to leave yourself behind
To bury your name, to fade across the line
To breathe again, to fade across the line I am the only way out, one step into the door
I am the only way out You said you could have but you wouldn't let go
You said you would have but you needed some more
I know you should have but you wanted it all
You said you're gonna but you needed, you needed some more You need a way to leave yourself behind
To bury your name, to fade across the line
To breathe again, to fade across the line I am the only way out, one step into the door
I am the only way out You need a way to leave yourself behind
To bury your name, to fade across the line
To breathe again, to fade across the line I am the only way out, I am the door
