

Portrait Of A Woman

Donell Jones

I've done my girl so wrong
And I don't know what I was thinking
Now, she's gone 'cause she was fed up with me
(This is a portrait of a woman)
Then why do we treat women so cold
When we come from one
Because you wouldn't do your mother wrong
(This is a portrait of a woman)
And to the women out there struggling
Taking care of your kids alone
Just hold on, you deserve a life of love
(This is a portrait of a woman)
Said a portrait of a woman
Your so beautiful
(This is a portrait of a woman)
This is the portrait of a woman
Of a woman
(This is a portrait of a woman)
If you love them, how come
We can't settle down with just one
Because you wouldn't take the same abuse
(This is a portrait of a woman)
To the women, if you cry almost every night
'Cause happiness ain't inside
Just stay true 'cause your sun will shine again
(This is a portrait of a woman)
As I look in your picture frame
Girl, you've been giving a wrong deal
But God loves you and you call up beautiful
(This is a portrait)
Of a woman so wonderful
She plant the earth with all her seeds
And as men we should take care of them
It's our responsibility
So, respect the one you call your love
Show her sensitivity
And don't be afraid, just get your own
Or you'll end up just like me
Lost and lonely

Said you gotta treat your woman right
(This is a portrait of a woman)
I said a portrait of a woman, of a woman
'Cause if she leave, she ain't coming back
You better get your shit on track
(This is a portrait of a woman)
Portrait of a woman
Of a woman, you better treat your woman right
Or she'll walk right out of your life
(This is a portrait of a woman)
Of a woman
Of a woman
She'll walk right out of your life
(This is a portrait of a woman)
This is a portrait of a woman

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnllyrics.com/>