She always seems to feed when Iâ€™m drunk
My heart is far from a buffet
(Wish there was more that I could say)
All these photographs of you
Even if the stars begin their fall, I can always post this on her wall

Woah oh, please forgive me
It seems Iâ€™ve far outgrown my britches

A night so hot not so long ago
We had such heat on cold concrete
(I would know cause I threw myself at your feet)
Itâ€™s too hard not to look at you
It was a memory I canâ€™t recall but it somehow landed on your wall

Woah oh, please forgive me
Itâ€™s time I set fire to all of these bridges

Sign the space above my heart with your initial
The scar you left is so superficial
Itâ€™s official

I always seem to need her when Iâ€™m drunk
My status says that I need you (Wish there was more that I could do)
Back in the day Iâ€™d send a letter
But I canâ€™t go back there after all so Iâ€™ll leave this mess aged on her wall

Woah oh, please forgive me
This was a story far too good to finish

Sign the space above my heart with your initial
The scar you left is so superficial
(Itâ€™s official)
Sign the space above my heart with your initial
The scar you left will surely be beneficial
Itâ€™s official

If I could take it back

We might be here together
Now I sit and wait
And hate the fact youâ€™re doing better (than me)

Sign the space above my heart with your initial
The scar you left is so superficial
Sign the space above my heart with your initial
The scar you left will surely be beneficial
Itâ€™s official
