

Pay for It

The Both

You're gonna make me pay for it
You're gonna make me wait for it
You're gonna make me pay for it now Well I made our bread, and I laid out clothes
And I made our bed when you finally rose
And I, I was never alone
And then when, again, you were held on hold
Well I held your head while I caught cold
And I, baby I should've known You're gonna make me pay for it
You're gonna make me wait for it
You're gonna make me pay for it now And in the end, when you'd had enough
I said "Call your friend," so you called my bluff and more
Down at the package store
Do you think it's tough?
Do you think it's bad?
Have you had it rough?
Well I've been had before
And baby, I know the score You're gonna make me pay for it now And maybe it's all in the way we Have been brought up, when we get so caught up In what kindness hides behind its face and how You're gonna make me pay for it now
You're gonna make me wait for it now You're gonna make me pay for it
You're gonna make me wait for it
You're gonna make me pay for it now
