

I Break Horses

Smog

Well, I rode out to the ocean
And the water looked like tarnished gold
I rode out on a broken horse
Who told me she'd never felt so old
She asked me if I'd feed her
And ride her now and then No no no, no no no, no no no
I break horses
I don't tend to them
I break horses They seem to come to me
Asking to be broken
They seem to run to me
I break horses Doesn't take me long
Just a few well-placed words
And their wandering hearts are gone
At first her warmth felt good between my legs
Living breathing heart-beating flesh
But soon that warmth turned to an itch Turned to a scratch
Turned to a gash
I break horses
I don't tend to them Tonight I'm swimming to my favorite island
And I don't want to see you swimming behind
Tonight I'm swimming to my favorite island
And I don't want to see you swimming behind No, I break horses
I don't tend to them
