A little different:

To collect the things that are mine,
And don't stop because of me
Maybe the wind will take me where she goes
Might want me to smile
And who knows how many times I've turned

In the world that doesn't gave me strength
Between the walls that doesn't allowed to breathe

So much to walk
And the world to which I am drawn to
Reminds me I've always been a little different
So much to walk
And the place where I attracted to
Will be a place where the sun will rise just for me

To seek just for the right taste
To roll on the tongue
And this sweet thing
Is all that looks
Odd and unclear
To fix the broken

And to know I almost got to..

My truth will also come
In time I'll understand everything..

So much to walk
And the world to which I am drawn to
Reminds me I've always been a little different
So much to walk
And the place where I attracted to
Will be a place where the sun will rise just for me

My truth also will
In time I'll understand everything

So much to walk
And the world to which I am drawn to
Reminds me I've always been a little different
So much to walk
And the place where I attracted to
Will be a place where the sun will rise just for me

And the world to which I am drawn to Remind me I've always been a little different

So much to walk
And the place where I attracted to
Will be a place where the sun will rise just for me

For me....
