

Please, Stop Saying I Love You

Vonrenzo

I starred out the window, as you, folded your clothes
Telling me there's something I should know
You picked up your shoes and you placed them all in a bag
Whispering please, don't be sad...
Can you show me the way that leads me back
To where you said that our love was really meant to be
I have finally found out this is all, just a passing phase
Oh why don't you see?
I have finally found out this is all now and our memories...
It's been what, two years without you, since I last saw your face
And I've been here singing your name
I woke up this morning to the rest of my life just thinking
Mama, tell me when are you coming home?
Can you show me the way that leads me back
To where you said that our love was really meant to be
I have finally found out this is all, just a passing phase,
Oh why don't you see?
I have finally found out this is all, now and our memories...
And if ever I should lose my way, I'll be here and now, only to say
I have finally found out this is all, just a passing phase,
Oh why don't you see?
I have finally found out this is all, now and our memories...
I have finally found, I am finally found...
I have finally found, we are here, and that is all...
If this was my dream, you would still be here...

Lyrics submitted by Nathan.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>