

One More Step Before It's Too Far

Echo Orbiter

Dirty and dumb, no incentive to call it off before it's too late
Can you believe she did it again; this time without a reason?
At least that's what she wrote in her journal before she took off

The only sense that's left to make
Became a modern day crusade
Holy smoke, she's afraid to make the same mistake
One more step before it's too far; the plan has gone awry

Tragically lost all the feelings required for successful healing
One emotion under God, and she's using it to slowly die
At least that's how it seems; she's locked herself away from everything

The only sense that's left to make
Became a modern day crusade
Holy smoke kill the pain; self administered Novocaine
One more step before it's too far; the plan has gone awry

Take a step back out of the rain
Establish contact; scream out your name
Turn the lights up to snuff out the flame
Of the addiction causing the pain
Wasting, Waiting, Hoping, Dying

Take a step back out of the rain
Establish contact; scream out your name
Turn the lights up to snuff out the flame
Of the addiction causing the pain
Wasting, Waiting, Hoping, Dying

Lyrics submitted by Cab.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnllyrics.com/>