

Look How Far We've Come

Dylan LeBlanc & Rayland Baxter one day i won't be insane won't play oh that foolish game we all need to play for you to get yours and me to get my way somedays i don't have the will for another run of the mill kind of day i'm sparing the change for your hearsaysaying look at what we've become drive me to drink or drive me to get a gun better not be the chosen one for you break your back on a slip of the tongue saying look how far we've come television selling this and that pretty women say "i wanna look like that" more than willing to pay all of that money, but he still won't stay little children hear your father scream every action like a puppet on a string the exact same way with all of your mind falling to prey screaming look at what we've become you drive me to drink and buy me another one

for you break your back on the slip of the tongue saying look how far we've come
