The Little Room

Lunic

I'm sitting in the little room
Watching you pretend that you don't love me like you used to
I can see the lies inside your eyes
I cry cause I can't forget all the things that we've been through
When the walls come crumbling down
Dust replaces the magic that we found
What if I told you that once I leave I let go?
Would you believe that I am stronger than you know?
You wished it away now I can't stay
Remember in the little room
The time we thought we had something special no one else had
Well I don't understand how something so good can turn out so bad
I know it hurts you even though you can't show it
I had to knock you down or I would have never known it
You wished it away now I can't stay
I hate the way you've made me hate you
I miss you
You couldn't say "stay"
Why can't I move on?
