Many Crowns

Jeff Deyo

A crown of thorns, a mockery
Of You my God, of You my King
You took my place
A place so bleak and coldA crown of thorns
A symbol of a desperate deed
Your desperate love
Your kindness, Lord
Resounds inside of meThere will never be a crown so cruel
You wore it like a king, a King of fools
You will always be the only King of kingsA crown of thorns, a crown of hate
For all You had, for all You gave
The King of all would rather serve than reignThere will never be a crown so cruel
You wore it like a king, a King of fools
You will always be the only King of kingsCrowned with many crowns
Crowned with many crowns
Crowned with many crowns
You are crowned with many crownsA crown of thorns, a crown of death
Forsaken by both God and man
But You prevailed to live and reign againAnd I know that there will never be a crown so cruel
You wore it like a king, a King of fools
You will always be the only King of kings, yeahThere will never be a crown so cruel
You wore it like a king, a King of fools
You will always be the only King of kingsThe only King of kings
The only King of kings
