

Many Crowns

Jeff Deyo

A crown of thorns, a mockery
Of You my God, of You my King
 You took my place
A place so bleak and coldA crown of thorns
 A symbol of a desperate deed
 Your desperate love
 Your kindness, Lord
Resounds inside of meThere will never be a crown so cruel
 You wore it like a king, a King of fools
You will always be the only King of kingsA crown of thorns, a crown of hate
 For all You had, for all You gave
The King of all would rather serve than reignThere will never be a crown so cruel
 You wore it like a king, a King of fools
You will always be the only King of kingsCrowned with many crowns
 Crowned with many crowns
 Crowned with many crowns
You are crowned with many crownsA crown of thorns, a crown of death
 Forsaken by both God and man
But You prevailed to live and reign againAnd I know that there will never be a crown so cruel
 You wore it like a king, a King of fools
You will always be the only King of kings, yeahThere will never be a crown so cruel
 You wore it like a king, a King of fools
You will always be the only King of kingsThe only King of kings
 The only King of kings
