Back To You

Goapele

I'm sitting in my room

Thinking back on you memories pass

My head was leaned against your face

Partly on your shoulder, curving your neckI tried to clear my thoughts of stress

And let go of the day

How it began whispered your nameSoft white lights between us falling

Forming into precious flowers, chartreuse

Beautiful and floating down on us

Sparkles flying towards us dancing

All around us vanish in air, vanish in airLeft before you knew a future holding you

All you saw of me, my heart should speak for me

Then you'd understand that push away

It craves compassion and strong arms to hold herYou and me revolving, angel wings fluttering

Orange gold, sunsets bold, star filled nights

Sweet as fantasia and still a glow surrounding you

The dandelions blew our wishes to the wind

Come and bring him back againSoft white lights between us falling

Forming into precious flowers, chartreuse

Beautiful and floating down on us

Sparkles flying towards us dancing

All around us vanish in airAnd I wonder how you felt

(I was melting inside)

Opened my eyes

(Felt so bright I was blind)

The car we hadn't left

I closed the door behind

(And I wished you would take me away) You left before I waved by then it was too late

I wished on the moon I'd always remember

You and me revolving, angel wings fluttering

Orange gold, sunsets bold, star filled nights

Sweet as fantasiaSoft white lights between us falling

Forming into precious flowers, chartreuse

Beautiful and floating down on us

Sparkles flying towards us dancing

All around us vanish in air, vanish in
