

One Fine Wire

Colbie Caillat

I try so many times but it's not taking me
And it seems so long ago that I used to believe
And I'm so lost inside of my head and crazy
But I can't get out of it, I'm just stumbling
And I'm juggling all the thoughts in my head
I'm juggling and my fears on fire
But I'm listening as it evolved in my head
I'm balancing on one fine wire
Every time my balance was fine
And I was just walking on one fine wire
Every time my balance was fine
And I was just walking on one fine wire
But it's frayed at both the ends and I'm slow unraveling
Life plays such silly games inside of me
And I've felt some distant cries, following
And they're entwined between the night and sun beams
I wish I were free from this pain in me
And I'm juggling all the thoughts in my head
I'm juggling and my fears on fire but
I'm listening as it evolved in my head

I'm balancing on one fine wire
Every time my balance was fine
And I was just walking on one fine wire
Every time my balance was fine
And I was just walking on one fine wire
And it's frayed at both the ends and I'm slow unraveling
And I'm, every time my balance was fine
And I was just walking on one fine wire
Every time my balance was fine
And I was just walking on one fine wire
And I'm juggling all the thoughts in my head
(And I'm, every time my balance was fine
And I was just walking on one fine wire)
I'm juggling and my fears on fire but
I'm listening as it evolved in my head
(Every time my balance was fine
And I was just walking on one fine wire)
I'm balancing on one fine wire
