

Wanderlove

Mason Williams

Come my love and we shall wander
All of love to see and know
In the seasons lost with rambling
All things come and all things go

We'll climb up the snowy mountains
Sail across the rolling seas
We shall live for one another
I for you and you for me

We'll go down to green grass meadows
Where the cold wind never blows
If we taste the wine of loving
Only you and I shall know

Come my love and we shall wander
Just to see what we can find
If we only find each other
Still the journeys worth the time

Love is like a star of heaven
Burning in the endlass sky
When it falls it bursts asunder
As it lives so shall it die

As it lives so shall it die
