

A Place Called Space

The Juan MacLean

Space
Is the place
Where nothing ever happens
And you can't find a trace
Of fallout
From a heartbreak
Disconnect from human interface
Can you feel it
All the downside
Of living with a memory
Dying in the sky[Chorus]
It's too late, late, late
Don't play your games here anymore
Because heaven knows what the heavens know
And you've got nowhere left to go
You take, take, take
I won't take games from you no more
Because heaven knows what the heavens know
And I've got nothing left to show you
Stars
From afar
Glimmer like a promise
Made to light the dark
Of isolation
Left in wonder
While living off distant memories of the heart
But the memories
Like the promise
Faded into darkness
Withered in the night[Chorus]
Flights
In the night
If nothing better happens
Could we find a place
To hide out
From a half-life
Celestial bodies burning out of sight
If we make it
On the far side
Never live asunder
Never recognize[Chorus]
