

Deprivation

Pastel Motel

Bombs
fall like bread crumbs to the ground
Detonate without a sound
A silent counsel from the crown.

And so, the rumors whispered in our ears,
Incomplete and insincere,Â Fueling ignorance with fear.

This is a deprivation Withholding information from everyone

We, the naive, still receive
Our opinions and beliefs
From the federal factories

Until, this old oppositionâ€™s grown
Financial empire overthrown
Weâ€™ll have to find it on our ownâ€”
