

Armies of Valinor

Galadriel

 Into the battle we ride again
 Against the dark one, against the terror, suffering and pain
 We're the Valar, Lords of the West
The light of trees still shines in our eyes from the past
 Across the sea, into the north
 There dwells the evil, the enemy we must fought
 The elves cursed his name for all the time
Now he will feel the anger of those, who remained divine
 Armies of evil, orcs and dark men
 Scattered away as their fortress fell
 Whirlpool of battle changed Middle Earth
 To still remind the victory of Valinor
