Perfect Healing

Joe Mullins & The Radio Ramblers

Perfect Healing
The old Dr. creased his brow and said for now your Mother is resting easy, but I feel we're near the end of all that mortal man and medicine can do.
She has fought this thing for so long that her will to fight is gone and please believe me, she has found her strength for hanging on from the thought that moving on means leaving you.
I felt the warmth of pastor Dan assuring hand resting on my shoulder, your mamma's hope is in the Lord for dragging those old chains of this disease there is no suffering over there and I urge you both to go and hold her, her eyes are searching thru the night for thru good Lord's loving light for sweet relief.
Let us pray for perfect healing please give us perfect healing, pray the hands of God will close he eyes and her pain will be no more.
When she slips the bonds of earth for glory and leaves her smile to tell her story that the Savior was there to greet her when she reaches that far away shore.
Our mother slipped away in the first golden rays of light this morning. I was summoned to her room by the sound of sister breaking by her bed. Mamma's face was filled with awe and I'm sure she saw eternity a dawning a face of wo a hour ago was know aglow with peace and joy instead.
Oh we prayed for perfect healing he sent us perfect healing the hands of God had closed her eyes and her pain will be no more when she slipped the bands of earth for glory she left the smile to tell her story that the savior was there to greet her when she reached that far away shore and we prayed for perfect healing he sent us perfect healing and the Savior was there to greet her when she reached that far away shore.

I pray I got all the words right a beautiful song and so full of the truth

Lyrics Submitted by Linda Mccall

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/