Vireo's Eye

Future Islands

A loose, and hazy time When you were not my Clementine And I was not your diamond's eyeBereft, as daisies lie For our love was not lost in style You were strong, I was a childWe, we're not kings here, We're not kings here We're just strangersAnd Love, has died in song Carried down by ancient tongues Ferried around the water's thrum And winds, along a line Along a whirl, a lonely girlTo be, to see, to sweat, and bleed To fall on your sword-on your sword On your wordWe, we're not kings here, We're not kings here We're just strangersBe still, by my side For you are not my Clementine And I am not your diamond's eye To Sleep!By right of you, I can't endure In the light of things, I can't ignore

In spite of all the rose's thorns, and hopeless words, and hopeless worksWe, we're not kings here,

We're not kings here

We're just strangersWe, we're not kings here,

We're not the kings here

We're just strangersWe, we're not kings here,

We're not kings here

We're just strangersWe, we're not kings here,

We're not the kings here We're just strangers

And angels
