

Hard Woman (2015 Remastered Version)

Mick Jagger

She's a hard woman to please,
And I thought about letting her know.
She's a hard lady to leave,
and I thought about letting her go.
She's a tough lady to leave, but, i thought about it.
She's a hard lady to please, yes she is.
I gave her laughter, she wanted diamonds.
I was romantic, she treated me cruelly.
Where is the mercy, where is the love?
You see, passion has a funny way of burning down and running low.
And suddenly it goes out and you wonder where does it go.
She's a hard woman to please,
I've thought about letting her know.
She's a hard lady to leave, yes she is.
I gave her laughter, she wanted diamonds.
She was unfaithful, treated me cruelly.
Where is the mercy, where is the love?
I'm alone at last; something inside of me knows
I could have loved in vain
For a thousand years. I have to let her go.
And time goes so fast and new love starts so slow.
I could have loved in wain for a thousand years,
I have to let her go.
Hard woman to please, yes you are.
Hard waman,tough lady,I've got to,I've got to say goodbye.
How can I say goodbye to my baby?
How can I say goodbye to my baby?
So long honey.

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>