

Start Again

Push Play

Maybe I disappeared when you least expected
Maybe I closed the door too soon
In the rear view mirror there's a space right where you left it
And maybe you needed me there too, maybe came too late
If I could start again I'd go back to that, back to that night
If I could just pretend I did everything, everything right
You didn't leave, we didn't fight
And I didn't wait to say you are my life
If I could start again it would never end
I remember a time when I was your best friend, yeah
The pillow still smells like your perfume, oh, oh
And I remember the second I, I didn't say the words that I meant
I left a broken memory of you, oh, oh, I never said sorry
If I could start again I'd go back to that, back to that
night
If I could just pretend I did everything, everything right
You didn't leave and we didn't fight
And I didn't wait to say you are my life
If I could start again it would never end
Could I change your mind? Can I rewind?
Can I replace words on the page?
Everything wrong, everything right
Give me the time just to explain what I meant to say
If I could start again I'd go back to that, back to that night
If I could just pretend I did everything, everything right
You didn't leave, we didn't fight
And I didn't wait to say you are my life
If I could start again it would never end
