

Dream Weekend

Nick Roes

I had a happy thought, I thought Iâ€™d see
If my love would keep me company.
Weekend in a little hut, down by the sea,
Maybe she would fall in love with me.
She said â€œeyesâ€• and I thought Iâ€™m in heaven.
I hoped and prayed that this could really be.
In our little heaven by the seashore,
Iâ€™d love her and sheâ€™d say she loves me.

Right by the fireplace, we cuddled close.
My heart pounded like it was in a race.
I held her tighter, then she pulled away.
Then she put her fist into my face.
She said she was only being friendly.
Anything we might have had was done.
Like a brother, that was how she loved me.
A bloody nose for me more ways than one.

And now the fresh sea air smells like dead fish.
The sand gets in my hair it never fails.
If I fall in love again, I only wish
Her right hook donâ€™t hurt as much as Gailâ€™s.
