Misplaced Heart

Colin James

I been losing time
And it's a precious thing
I don't watch my back much lately
It's funny how I see, everything
Twisted and turning in the breezeYou made your mind up
And now you're living with the consequences
Of all that you left behindOoh, every day is a moment
I seen the faces passing by,
I know it's true
But what's the use
Blame it on my misplaced heartYou can't get back,
What you gave away
I'm wasted and lost in the crowd
You can't fake what you never feel
You just let the scene fall downOoh, every day is a last time
Just another life passing by
I know it's cruel, the times that we lose
Blame it on my misplaced heartLessons never learned
With every mile that you burn
If only a moment you're alone
You're lost without a way homeOoh, everyday is a moment
It's in the faces passing by
I know it's true
But what's the use
Blame on my misplaced heart
I know it's true
The times that we lose
Blame it on my misplaced heart
Blame it on my misplaced, heart.
