

Nothing Left to Do

Alan Jackson

I shaved my face and combed my hair
Put on a new pair of underwear
Sat on the porch with my labrador
Like a hundred other times before
She changed her shoes and freshened up her face
Put on some skimpy, sexy lace
Finally made her way through the back screen door
We loaded up on the front seat of my Ford
And we went out to dinner and we drove right back home
Watched an old movie and drank a half a bottle of rum
And then we turned off the TV and we got right down to it
There ain't nothin' left to do now that we've done it
Seems like it happens every time
We get a chance to reignite that fire
We burn it fast and then retire
Just before the news on channel 5
And we went out to dinner and we drove right back home
Watched an old movie and drank a half a bottle of rum
And then we turned off the TV and we got right down to it
There ain't nothin' left to do now that we've done it
After all these years, it can get routine
You change the order up, or use different names
Try it in the mornin', or the middle of the day
The end results are still the same
Oh we went out to dinner and we drove right back home
Watched an old movie and drank a half a bottle of rum
And then we turned off the TV and we got right down to it
There ain't nothin' left to do now that we've done it
Oh Lord we turned off the TV and we got right down to it
There ain't nothin' left to do now that we've done it
Hey honey, hand me that remote
